

Assignment 2

1. Git is Version Control System and we can say it is a local repository.
2. Version Control System means we can work on the current version of our work or we can also go to the previous version work and modify it.
3. Github is a Server or a GUI where we can interact smoothly and also we can push our file from the local repository.
4. Some popular git hosting services gitlab,perforce,bitbucket.
5. 2 types of version control system available one is Centralized Version Control System and other is Distributed Version Control System.
6. Git gives us much benefit it allows us to create a local repo where we can commit our code if system crash by chance then code can be restore and also allow to connect to main repo to push our code.
7. Git repository means it create a part where our code commit and safely stored like cloud base store .
8. By using command git init it create a repository in the local computer.