

Assignment

1. The device which take or input data process the data and give the output is called Computer.
2. RAM is Random Access Memory where we store data for a short term period and send to CPU for process it. RAM is volatile.
3. Computer Data stored in Hard Drive
4. Keyboard Input device is use to type text number and data to input in the computer devices.
5. In output device we get the output or get the result of that data or some operation.
6. Mouse is the input device that allows user to move the cursor or pointer to move in the screee.
7. Binary code directly understand by computer which out transalation.
8. Keyboard, Mouse are the inpute devices , and many input devices are present in the computer.